UP YOUR SELFIE BRONZING GAME

We all know how brilliant sheet masks are for hydrating, brightening and knocking back signs of fatigue. Well, now you can add bronzing to their list of benefits, too. Enter St Tropez's Self Tan Express Bronzing Face Sheet Mask, £15 (for a pack of two) – the first-ever sheet mask spiked with a tanning agent and moisturising hyaluronic acid molecules. Leave it on for five minutes to look lightly sun-kissed, or 10-15 minutes for a deeper 'just got back from St Barts' glow. Once you peel off the mask, blend the remaining serum into your skin and there'll be no risk of a reverse panda eye.

PRADA CANDY GLOSS EDT, £75 FOR 80ML (FABLED.COM)

It may be pink and it may be fruity, but Prada's latest fragrance offering is anything but in-your-face sweet. Blackcurrant and peach notes are offset by a surprising shot of slightly acidic cherry, soft orange blossom and powdery musk. Think pretty but with added punch.

ANATOMY OF...CLINIQUE MOISTURE SURGE HYDRATING SUPERCHARGED CONCENTRATE, £34

To quench dry skin without leaving it feeling claggy, reach for this hi-tech upgrade to your regular serum. The water-gel texture sinks in so quickly, you practically forget you're wearing anything – until, that is, you catch a glimpse of your skin looking plumper than a hotel pillow.

Special polymers attract water with magnet-like precision, instantly helping to boost skin's moisture retention by 179 per cent. And after 24 hours, your skin is still plump full with 65 per cent of this hydration.

Tiny bubble-like spheres containing vitamin E and C burst on application to release potent antioxidants.

The formula strengthens the skin's moisture barrier, so that it's better equipped to resist environmental aggressors like pollution and UV.
