

The French Pedicure Got a Glamorous Update for Summer 2026

Summer 2026 isn't just about having the coolest mani color (or nail art)—we're looking...well, toward our feet as well. Celebrity nail artists Milly Mason and Harriet Westmoreland both agree, with one specific look in mind: The French pedicure is back.

Last week, Kylie Jenner posted photos from her holiday in Turks and Caicos with a classic feet-in-the-sand shot—square toenails painted in the French manicure design with silver tips.

What’s a French Pedicure?

Just like the name implies, the French pedicure shares the same DNA as a French manicure. Typically starting with a soft pink or nude base, the look is finished off with a crisp white “smile line” (a.k.a. the tip of the nail) and glossy top coat. “The French pedicure strikes the perfect balance between timeless and modern,” Mason says of the look. “It’s chic and understated, and it works with absolutely any outfit and any shoe and for any occasion.”
